I do not support Polymet mining for copper and nickel. I am an active user of the Boundary Waters and do not want to see it environmentally compromised. While I understand people's desire for good jobs, I do not believe the long-term risk is worth taking for a limited number of jobs in the short-term. Also, looking at the history of mining operations around the world, I do not trust Polymet to supply the funds needed for potential clean-up. They might promise the world, but it is another thing to actually come through with promises when the time comes.
